KURT CYR

Interior designer, product designer, fabric designer even a Christmas designer, call him what you will, Kurt is probably doing it. "Design is design. Kurt says. "The end product may vary, but the process is the same."

Houses designed for television and radio celebrities, fashion showrooms, a lighting line, a book, and now Christmas. Kurt has the ability to cross the media lines and explore design. He also has numerous television appearances to his credit.

As a guest on shelter shows, he demonstrated paint techniques, faux finishes and showcased interior design projects. You may recognize him from early morning chat shows. Kurt has an enthusiasm and fervor for design that knows no hour!

Kurt was even able to please Mimi from the Drew Carey Show when he completely redesigned, Kathy Kinney's home. Her directive was "Make it look like Christmas in Connecticut." When he replied "Barbara Stanwyck will have nothing on you!" the deal was sealed and a happy client born, along with many referrals.

Kurt taught classes in Green Design and Human Factors in Design at the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising (FIDM) in Los Angeles. He frequently serves as a keynote speaker on design. Kurt's first book, Centerpieces Through the Year, was the focus of numerous national television shows.

For the last 3 years, he has been busy reviving the 9 Mile Schoolhouse Christmas Market. In the spirit of the original market, Kurt has worked to infuse tradition with new product designs. Each year a new collection is designed based on the folklore and holiday traditions of a different country. Spending the holidays in the chosen country allows Kurt to experience the traditions first hand and then interpret them for the collection.

Here are some television shows you where you can find Kurt.
